ANZSCDB ComBio2018 Awards 23rd to 26th September 2018

A. ANZSCDB Research and Presentation Awards

1. The Toshiya Yamada Early Career Award - value $500

Best oral presentation by a junior postdoctoral fellow (within 5 years of completing a Ph.D.) in the fields of Cell or Developmental Biology.

2. The David Walsh Student Prize - value $350

Best oral presentation by a student in the fields of Cell or Developmental Biology.

3. The Keith Dixon Prize in Developmental Biology - value $350

Best poster presentation by a student in the field of Developmental Biology.

4. The Cell Biology Student Poster Prize – value $350

Best poster presentation by a student in the field of Cell Biology.

All Junior Postdoctoral and Student members who submit abstracts as the presenting author at ComBio2018 are eligible to be considered for these awards. All presenting authors are encouraged to indicate on their abstract submission form that they would be prepared to deliver an ORAL presentation, although this is not essential for award eligibility.

Awards will be announced and presented during the closing ceremony of ComBio2018.

B. ComBio Student Travel Awards

The ANZSCDB will consider applications by its student members to contribute towards their registration for ComBio2018, subject to satisfying certain eligibility requirements (see below). The total number of bursaries awarded will be determined by the available funds.

To apply, please forward a completed Application Form and your Submitted Abstract as a single .pdf file to the ANZSCDB Secretary (Michael.Samuel@unisa.edu.au) on or before the early bird registration deadline.
